

MARSHALL EVADES

General Marshall's testimony last Monday was a strange pattern of vigorous generalities, followed by evasive retreats whenever he was challenged to make good his sweeping indictments of General MacArthur.

Some of these withdrawals were of a nature which cannot be analyzed, since Marshall was exceedingly free in identifying his key comments as "classified" — that is, material not to be made public because of its real or imagined value to our foreign enemies.

Marshall has long been devoted to this type of defense. He was the man, it will be remembered, who personally talked Governor Dewey out of revealing the Army Board report on Pearl Harbor, back in the weeks before the 1944 Presidential election. This report identified General Marshall as one of those negligent in the execution of their duties, in connection with the Pearl Harbor disaster. General Marshall told Governor Dewey that revelation of this politically explosive material would give aid and comfort to the Japs.

His frequent suppressions of testimony before the Senators brought some lively criticism, but the material has been censored from the American people, just the same.

In numerous other points, however, General Marshall used weasel words trying to make his criticisms of MacArthur stick, despite their questionable validity.

For example, General Marshall sweepingly denied the statement of MacArthur that the Chiefs of Staff had agreed with MacArthur on the need for direct action against Red China. MacArthur released a statement of recommended policy dated last January 12, in which the Chiefs of Staff suggested substantially the identical measures as MacArthur urged — blockade of Red China, airplane reconnaissance of China and Manchuria, and use of the Chinese Nationalists now holed up in Formosa.

General Marshall's comments on this were unsatisfactory. He said that this memorandum was written merely to cover the possible emergency of a forced evacuation from Korea — despite the fact that its own language clearly set it forth as proposals for action "as soon as our position in Korea is stabilized." And several times he made a point of the fact that he had never "vetoed or disapproved" these suggestions — which is wholly beside the question. He did not put them into operation, or ask that they be put into operation—that's the main thing. He didn't have to veto them—all he had to do was what he did do, let them die a natural death.

In one topic, where General Marshall and President Truman have assailed MacArthur as a war-monger who would machine-gun and bomb his way into World War III, Marshall let a cat out of the bag and revealed that not only the Chiefs of Staff, but he and the President as well, supported MacArthur's contentions. That is in the subject of "hot pursuit," where enemy planes, engaged in dogfights with our aviators, were allowed to escape scot-free by merely flying over arbitrary landpoints.

In this matter, which is one where the Truman policy has been most harshly criticized by soldiers and observers in Korea, Marshall took the position that both he and Mr. Truman wanted to do what MacArthur proposed, that is, permit pursuit of enemy planes a stated distance across the Yalu river — but that our allies (whose total contribution to the Korean war is one to ten compared with ours) wouldn't let us.

Illustrative of the unfair criticism which General Marshall leveled against General MacArthur was his bringing out the fact that MacArthur recommended against using Chinese Nationalists in Korea when the offer was made in July last year, but last November changed his views and asked for the very forces he had earlier declined. This was presented in such fashion as to hint that MacArthur couldn't make up his mind, although MacArthur had stated very clearly that the relief of the threat against Formosa was the factor which caused him to ask for the troops he had previously refused.

At any event, far more of a question than any alleged vacillation on the part of General MacArthur was the matter of why the Chiefs of Staff turned down MacArthur's request last November, when, as events later proved, the additional South Korea reinforcements would have been priceless—and then recommended use of these troops in their memorandum of January 12.

Perhaps the most inflammatory testimony which General Marshall produced against General MacArthur was his assertion that a public statement made by MacArthur last March 24 made it "necessary to abandon" an effort being made by the American

THE WAR

TOKYO — Allied ground and air forces smashed heavily today at Red troops massing on both flanks of Korea's central sector for an expected attempt to split the United Nations front down the middle. Swarms of planes blasted Chinese and North Korean buildup concentrations in the West-Central and East-Central areas as the U. S. Fifth Air Force hurled 600 sorties against the enemy Friday. UN tank-infantry patrols simultaneously lashed at Communist screening forces which offered hardened resistance at many points along the cross-peninsula front. In a few other areas, however, the Reds made new withdrawals. The West-Central sector around Kapyong, northeast of Seoul, was the scene of the biggest enemy buildup.

KAISER-FRAZER BUYS INTO CHASE AIRCRAFT

Purchase Sets at Rest The Rumors About Expansion of Kaiser Plant Here

BUYS 49% OF STOCK

Announcement made in Trenton late yesterday that the Kaiser-Frazer Co. has purchased 49 percent of the Chase Aircraft Co., in that city sets at rest rumors about proposed expansion of the Kaiser interests in Bristol. It has long been rumored here that Kaiser was planning expansion of its No. 2 plant here to aid in production of aircraft and aircraft parts for defense purposes.

The announcement in Trenton yesterday was made jointly by Chase President Michael Stroukoff and Edgar Kaiser, president of K-F.

In negotiation for the past three months, the deal provides for immediate expansion of Chase management. Kaiser will be named president and chief executive officer, with Stroukoff as executive vice president and chief engineer in charge of research and development.

The new board of directors will be composed of eight members—three nominated by Stroukoff, three by Kaiser—and two outside directors not now connected with either enterprise. Jesse C. Cousins, Chase treasurer, will remain in that post. Kaiser, who would not disclose the amount involved, termed the transaction "a constructive step for K-F. It not only broadens our interest in defense, but provides K-F with a substantial interest in long-range aircraft programs."

TED MACK, OF RADIO FAME, TO BE HERE ON FINAL DAY OF YOUTH WEEK, WHEN TALENT SHOW WILL TAKE PLACE AT BRISTOL HIGH SCHOOL FIELD

Ted Mack, of the Original Amateur Hour, will come to Bristol on Saturday, May 26th, when the parade of Bristol Youth Week will be held. Mack will be present at the high school field where a talent show will take place, finals of the track meet held, and prizes awarded to the Youth Week winners.

Although Mr. Mack had been contacted over a month ago by Thomas James, chairman of the Youth Week committee, it wasn't until last night's meeting in the Elks' Home that the official announcement was made that Mack would come to Bristol.

Maxwell Gordon presided over the meeting with Stephen Midouhas acting as secretary.

Jerry Bloom, coach of the Bristol high school, was present and announced that the track meet has been scheduled for Saturday, May 19th. However, eight of the finals will be held over until the following Saturday at the climax of Youth Week. Bloom, who is also in charge of the basketball foul-shooting contest, has set Wednesday, May 23rd, as the date set for that event. The foul-shooting will take place at Memorial Park at seven o'clock.

Two members of the Chester V. Terchon Post, V. F. W., were present and set forth the rules of the marbles contest. The Terchon Post will conduct the marbles tournament as a committee. The representatives were Howard Smoyer and Maurice Wildman. It is most likely that the Bristol Youth Week winner will represent the local post in the VFW tournament.

Smoyer and Wildman advised the ward and district leaders to begin their eliminations this week as the marbles tourney will start on Tuesday evening, May 22nd, on Memorial field and it may take several evenings to finish. Starting time of the tournament was given as six o'clock.

It was announced that it will be a round-robin tournament with each player shooting ten games. The boys' winner and girls' winner will both receive trophies.

Henry Morgan, chairman of the softball committee, reported that the first round of the softball tournament has been practically completed, there being another game scheduled for this evening.

The second round will be announced in these columns tomorrow.

Ward and district leaders present were: James Coles, Jerry Orrino, Joseph Sagolla, Robert Hughes, Raymond Tomlinson, Harold Van Wert, Marty Fallon, Violet DiNunzio, and Marion Petro.

Fleet of Trucks To Aid in Clean-Up Drive

Bristol residents will have an added opportunity to dispose of the trash and junk they have been cleaning from their properties and vacant lots, when a fleet of eight trucks from local industrial and business concerns is put into service for special trash collections tomorrow and May 19th.

The fleet will be put into operation in cooperation with the Bristol Chamber of Commerce's fourth annual Clean Up—Paint Up—Fix Up campaign. A spokesman for the committee in charge of the campaign stated this morning that some borough equipment may also be put into operation to aid in the trash collections on the next two Saturdays, if they are needed.

Plans call for the trucks to be assembled at the Municipal Building at eight a. m. on May 12th and May 19th. They will then be assigned to various sections of the borough to pick up trash that has been properly tied and placed on sidewalks by early morning.

TELEVISION SET IS GIVEN TO ST. MARK'S

Parochial Pupils Are First In Bristol To Earn The American Stores Gift

PRESENTATION TODAY

The first television set earned by any group of Bristol school children was presented to St. Mark's parochial school, this morning, by representatives of American Stores Company.

The occasion was a momentous one for the girls and boys in St. Mark's classes, as well as for the Sisters of the teaching staff, and the priests of St. Mark's parish.

The 16-inch television set had the spotlight on the stage of St. Mark's school hall, when a program was conducted at 10 o'clock, and later numerous pictures were taken—one of particular interest being that in which 13 girls of the commercial department surrounded the set. The girls in that department had assumed full responsibility for tabulating the votes—500,000 such being required to earn the set. St. Mark's pupils have been active for several months—accumulating Acme Market sales slips, in anticipation of securing the television set for their school.

SPORT FOR STUDENTS

New York City's Board of Higher Education, after an investigation of intercollegiate sports at the municipal colleges, has issued a new and praiseworthy code of athletic conduct for those four institutions—City College, Brooklyn, Hunter and Queens.
De-emphasis is the purpose. The four city schools are forbidden to play basketball at Madison Square Garden or at any other commercially operated arena. No more "recruitment" of athletes with special scholarships or preferential treatment. No more "outside" athletics for college players, such as summer basketball at resort hotels. Emphasis is to be on sports for all the students rather than a few.

The rulings coincided significantly with bribery indictments filed against 12 former basketball players of City College, Long Island University and New York University. In all, the city-wide basketball scandal has resulted in the arrest of 18 metropolitan college players.

Three other New York colleges will continue to play in the Garden—NYU and Manhattan, both of which had players involved in the scandal, and St. John's, which did not. Similarly, to support less lucrative sports and to protect enormous investments in athletic plant and equipment, many major colleges throughout the country will continue to rely on bigtime football with all its evils of subsidization and over-emphasis.

Since each of the municipal colleges operates on a comparatively modest athletic scale, it may be argued that the Board of Higher Education's rulings were easy to make. That is not the point. Here is a case where educational authorities have acted upon a compelling need—that of returning college sports to the students.

ANIMAL IQs

It is not revealed who made the tests or how exhaustive they were, but the matter is of such importance that haste is hereby made to pass it on to those who read. According, then, to the new issue of The World Book Encyclopedia, the 10 most intelligent animals in the world, starting with the smartest and getting gradually dumber, are the chimpanzee, orangutan, gorilla, monkey, dog, cat, raccoon, elephant, pig and horse.

That there are those who find fault with this classification may be taken for granted. Horse lovers—but hardly horse bettors—will object to a ranking which puts their favorite animal below the pig and the elephant. Dog owners won't like to see dogs listed as "about even" in intelligence with cats, and cat owners will be equally offended.

But this piece is entirely objective. It doesn't express an opinion, as all editorials are supposed to do, but merely reports conclusions reached elsewhere.

If the government forces big gamblers to keep books on their profits for income tax purposes, many of the big shots may be forced to take a refresher course in arithmetic and to learn to write.

can government "to negotiate a settlement of the Korean conflict."

Now, the fact of the matter is that all MacArthur's statement contained was a demand that Red China and the North Koreans turn their minds towards peace. It is hard to see just how a call from MacArthur for peace could so seriously cripple the peace negotiations being carried forward among the United Nations countries.

But beyond any question, that is not the whole story. At the time referred to, there was a world-wide buildup, headed by Great Britain, to "buy" peace in Korea at the expense of letting Red China enter the United Nations, and giving her Formosa. MacArthur was not fired when he demanded that Red China make peace, you will remember, but when he wrote to Congressman Joe Martin saying that Formosa must be held at all costs, and spoke of Red China in terms which forever debar that nation from consideration for sitting down with the family of respectable countries.

Again and again, it has been charged that the appeasers of Washington and London were all set to pull a fast deal with Red China last March, and restore a so-called "peace" on the basis of giving that Communist stooge of Russia precisely what it was she has been fighting for all the time.

If that is the sort of peace which MacArthur smashed, then more glory to him. It is easy to understand that President Truman and his associates, under such circumstances, would have wanted to fire him—but the rest of the world ought to sing his praises for having broken up one of the most frightful dead-end bargains ever contemplated!

this area, and George Pfeifer, assistant sales manager, both of the American Stores Company. Mr. Pfeifer's pleasure on the part of his company officials in presenting such sets to schools, "We are only giving you something you have earned," he informed the pupils. "You did a splendid job in collecting votes." He complimented them on the vision of months ago, which, coupled with hard work, earned the set. "You asked your mothers, fathers, uncles, aunts, neighbors and friends for slips, and I know you'll appreciate this television set." He mentioned the possibility of a channel being assigned to educational purposes. In conclusion he mentioned that the girls and boys will appreciate the set the more because they expended efforts toward it.

Mr. Pfeifer complimented Mother Superior Germaine on the orderliness and attentiveness of the children, and on their singing ability. "This is the 70th school to receive such a set. We are giving away 900," he added. In presenting the set, Mr. Pfeifer had this to say: "I hope you have many hours of enjoyment from it." In accepting the set for the school, John Adams, a pupil, expressed "sincere appreciation to representatives of the Acme Company." He added: "We hope it will provide many opportunities for instruction . . . we are deeply grateful."

The selections sung by the pupils were "Hail, Mary" and "Our Lady of Fatima."

The girls of the commercial class who aided in the tabulation of votes are: Mary Dugan, Anne Dunn, Elizabeth Elmer, Irene Monti, Dolores Wildman, Dolores Dougherty, Jean Gross, Marie Hague, Audrey Holdeman, Mary Ferry, Elizabeth Mossbrook, Phyllis Taylor, and Mary Rittler.

Today's Quiet Moment

By the Rev. William E. Hakes
Pastor
First Baptist Church

"Ye shall be my witnesses." A person cannot serve as a witness in court unless he knows that the experience he is able to relate actually happened, and that he was there to see it for himself. Just so, God does not expect anyone to carry the Gospel message as a second hand truth. Only those who have tasted and seen that the Lord is good, are adequately prepared to give their personal witness for Christ. If you are a believer in Christ, God wants you to tell of your conversion and personal experience to others. The unsaved about us are dying for want of the message of Life through Jesus the Son of God. God did not say, "I would like you to be my witnesses." He firmly declares, "Ye SHALL be my witnesses." All of us daily and many times each day contact folk whose hearts are heavy, who do not know the Saviour, and who are being crushed beneath the load of their own sin. We must bring to them the good news that "Christ Jesus came to save sinners." We can tell the Gospel story by our life and lip. By the way we live we are witnesses for Christ. If our lives are consistent with our knowledge of Christ. By the things we say we also testify for our Saviour, Jesus Christ. Will you tell someone today that Jesus Christ is your Saviour and that He died on Calvary to save them from their sins, too?

SPORTSMEN'S BRIEFS

By JOE ELBERSON

Testimonial shoot . . . Irwin Scheffey, dean of Bristol trapshooters, will be signally honored this Sunday when a testimonial shoot will be held in recognition of his more than 50 years as a bluerock marksman, many of which were under the colors of the Bristol Fish & Game Protective Association.

The program will be run over the traps of the Association, west of Bath Road at Silver Lake, and will consist of fifty 16-yard targets, Lewis Class. Entrance fee is $4.50 of which $3.00 will be purse, divided one class to each 6 entries. An optional purse of $1.50 for high gun honors will also be included, with one money for each five entries.

Following the Lewis Class matches a doubles event will be run, and those wishing to shoot targets only are welcome.

Because of the large field of entries expected in the testimonial shoot the Association's trap committee, headed by Glen Cobbleigh, has appealed to the general membership of the club to send volunteers to aid in conducting the matches.

Local fishing . . . the highlight of local fishing conditions during the last week centers around a 28-inch walleye pike taken by a New Jersey angler in the Delaware River opposite the Kaiser Metal Products plant. The fish was landed Tuesday afternoon on a minnow. Also, from the river are coming many large catfish, particularly in the section near Pennsbury. Most successful anglers are using chunks of shad for bait. Catfish have been taken in limited numbers from Silver Lake during the past week, and the Ne-hanmy, especially in the Bridgewater section, is still yielding some large carp.

Winged predators . . . enemies of wildlife are always attracted to areas where small game is concentrated. When game birds are held in uncovered pens, ground predators are more easily controlled than the winged variety. The following stories attest to this, also to the tremendous lifting power of large predatory birds.

Within the past 12 months, 74 great horned owls have been killed at the Game Commission's pheasant holding pen located on game lands in Crawford County.

Last spring, when Commission employees raided a great horned owl's nest in that county, they found the remains of 7 hen pheasants that were identified as birds taken from laying fields on the Western Game Farm, located near Cambridge Springs, a half mile from the nest.

Awaiting Governor's signature . . . two bills, both of which have passed both Houses of the General Assembly in Harrisburg, need only the Governor's signature to become law. The first amends a section of the Game Law and will permit unlicensed and unwrapped guns and loose ammunition in vehicles, any time, provided the guns are unloaded.

The second will permit the use of semi-automatic shotguns for the hunting and killing of small game, predators and unprotected birds.

Wildlife vs. autos . . . from a representative of the Game Commission comes this report:

"The new, eastern portion of the Turnpike is certainly taking its toll of wildlife. This section is literally strewn with the remains of victims struck by fast moving vehicles.

"Between the Reading and Harrisburg interchanges, I recently counted 33 pieces of lifeless wildlife, including rabbits, squirrels, pheasants, raccoons, opossums, skunks, and numerous song birds.

New law for big game hunters . . . recently passed in Harrisburg is a new law which deals with the transportation of parts of big game. It has amended Section 711 of the Game Law as follows: "Any individual may possess, transport, carry or convey an unmarked part of a big game carcass that has been cut up, but such person shall upon request of any law enforcement officer furnish the name and address of the person killing the big game animal and any other information required to properly establish legal possession in such person." The act will become effective September 1, 1951.

Scores . . . C. Confer topped the trapshooting field at the Newportville Rod & Gun Club bluerock shoot last week when he smashed 24 out of a possible 25 targets. G. Good and E. Bridge split second place honors when each posted a 23. S. Gould won third place position with a 22, while W. Warner turned in a 21. I. Book, R. Scott, and C. Suter all had 21s. The next shoot of the Club will be held Sunday, June 2nd, beginning at 1 P. M.

CLUBMEN'S SOFTBALL LEAGUE WILL MEET

Representatives of the teams entering in the Bristol Clubmen's Association Softball League will meet at the Ukrainian-American Club this evening at eight o'clock. So far six organizations have expressed an interest in the league. They are: No. 1 Fire Co., St. Ann's A. A., Veterans of Foreign Wars, Royal Order of Moose, Mutual Aid Society, and the Clinton J. Lewis Lodge. Chartered organizations which are not members of the Clubmen's Association are invited to attend this meeting. The league will be run on a non-profit, non-professional basis to serve the purpose of providing recreation in the community. Expenses will be kept down to the minimum essentials for playing the game. It is expected that play will begin near the latter part of May. The final playing rules and schedules will be made at this meeting. Any organization desiring to enter this league must be present at this meeting.

VOLTZ TEAM TO PRACTICE

The Voltz-Texaco team will hold an important practice drill tomorrow afternoon on the Memorial Park diamond at 1:30 o'clock. All players are requested to report. Voltz-Texaco, a member of the First County League, will play its first home game on Tuesday evening.
